About This Production

Martin McDonagh — who wrote and directed the award-winning films In Bruges and Seven Psychopaths — excels at darkly comic drama. In The Beauty Queen of Leenane he gives us a powerful and moving play set in Connemara in the recent past.

Maureen Folan is a spinster who takes care of her selfish and manipulative mother Mag. Maureen's sisters have escaped from the village of Leenane and mother and daughter are locked in a comically dysfunctional relationship. As the play progresses the secrets emerge.

The last-chance romance between Maureen and Pato Dooley, a construction worker, and Mag's efforts to thwart it, move the play from comedy into darker territory. Ray Dooley, Pato's brother, is the unwitting instrument of the final tragedy.
